String Dog partners with Springer Guitars

The String Dog Company is proud to announce that all handmade Springer Guitars are shipped from its Valmont France shop with Tone Rockets electric strings. String Dog is pleased, after several months of testing, to have been chosen as the exclusive string provider to the Springer line of instruments.

Mikael Springer, of Springer Guitars, has been gaining recognition for his passion of building guitars to a high standard. President of String Dog, Nathan Ferrarelli said "Mikael's dedication to building an instrument for the player in mind, along with his love of functional design, and the desire to work with his hands - shines through to the final result. His work is really being noticed. We are glad to be a part of it, and honored that he chose us."

Both String Dog and Springer have developed an excellent working relationship which share similar ideals for quality and service. All Springer guitars commissioned by players, and built for dealers worldwide, are delivered with Tone Rockets 10 gauge strings.
